

The body we will be fitted with in heaven will be “fashioned like unto” the Lord Jesus Christ’s heavenly body. This would be the one he spent 40 days in on the earth after his resurrection from the dead, the same one that his disciples watched ascend up into a cloud at the end of this period.

Notice it doesn’t give a description of this body, only that it is “glorious.” This leads me to believe that God doesn’t want us to know exactly what it looks like, just to trust that whatever that is will be glorious. This is in perfect keeping with the idea that we must walk by faith, and accept what the Bible says as an article of faith. If God was presently allowing certain individuals on earth to see and experience more than this, this would contradict that edict. To demand more than what God has allowed us to see in Scripture would not qualify as faith, but rather the opposite of faith.
